OMB's "Final Information Quality Bulletin for Peer Review" (Dec 16, 2004) says,

Peer review involves the review of a draft product for quality by specialists in the field who were not involved in producing the draft. The peer reviewer's report is an evaluation or critique that is used by the authors of the draft to improve the product. Peer review typically evaluates the clarity of hypotheses, the validity of the research design, the quality of data collection procedures, the robustness of the methods employed, the appropriateness of the methods for the hypotheses being tested, the extent to which the conclusions follow from the analysis, and the strengths and limitations of the overall product.
